📄 GSA SmartPay 2 Program

Some federal government credit cards issued under the GSA SmartPay 2 Program may be used to make exempt purchases in accordance with the government exemption provided in Va. Code § 58.1-609.1\(4\) \(/content/welcome-laws-rules-decisions\). The billing method determines the tax status of purchases. Only those cards that are billed and paid directly by the federal government (centrally billed) can be used to make exempt purchases.

Travel purchases are often billed to an individual government employee cardholder. When individually billed, these purchases are taxable. The following addresses the application of the Virginia retail sale and use tax to the four types of credit cards issued under the SmartPay 2 Program.

- Travel Cards:
Purpose: For travel expenses related to official government travel

📄 Exemption Certificates

Because the taxable or exempt status of the qualifying cards can be determined by the card account numbers, it is not necessary that federal government entities provide vendors with an exemption certificate or purchase order when making exempt purchases using such credit cards.

📄 Audit Requirements

The department currently relies on the credit card number to determine whether a particular transaction qualifies as an exempt purchase by the federal government. In auditing vendors, the department verifies that an exempt credit card number has been used to pay for an exempt transaction. Vendors, in accepting these credit cards, must make a determination of the taxable or exempt status of the transaction based on the card account number. In order to document an exempt transaction, vendors must retain in their records a copy of the sales invoice, receipt, or on-line transaction log that includes the credit card number (or photo copy of the exempt credit card).
